

Vision

Westell, Inc. designs carrier-class equipment that delivers high-speed communications for telecommunications operators and internet service providers throughout North America and Europe.

The Westell vision has remained unchanged during our more than 25-year history. We provide innovative, highly engineered solutions that make it easy for carriers and service providers to give their customers more--more content, more services and more capabilities.

By continually seeking solutions to emerging needs, Westell ensures its customers win the complex triple play of networked data, voice, and media services. Our award-winning products and services include residential modems and gateways, transport and termination devices, and conferencing services.

Reliability is the hallmark of Westell's products, which are engineered and manufactured to a defect-free standard, lowering the total cost of ownership for our customers... and their customers.
